No matter how welcome an orange may be overseas, it is not a good traveller in a parcel for a member of the armed forces abroad. Parcels are still being received at the base post offices and through and requiring repair, because fruit had decayed within them. In some parcels oranges were found which had been dipped in paraffin wax before packing, a measure that did not prevent decay. The mailing of fruit to the forces is prohibited, because of its perishable nature and the likelihood that it will also damage other parcels. To help ensure the safety of overseas mail and to avoid delay and loss, do not include fresh fruit in parcel post.

BELLEVUE BOY IS CLEVER MUSICIAN

Among the many talented musicians who make up the orchestra accompanying "The Army Show," which opens in Calgary on Monday, is a young Albertan who will be no stranger to local audiences. He is Private Frank Hosek, a former resident of Bellevue, who plays violin, clarinet and saxophone.

Hosek has been studying violin since he was eight years of age. Early proof of his proficiency was forthcoming as he became a perennial winner of violin competitions at the Crows' Nest valley musical festival, and later when he won an Alberta Provincial Festival shield at Calgary in 1936. Outbreak of the war prevented him taking advantage of a scholarship to the Royal Academy of Music in London, England, won in a nation-wide competition, so Frank continued his studies in Toronto instead.

Now 21 years of age, Hosek was born in Czechoslovakia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hosek, and his father is also in the army, being bandmaster sergeant at the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps training centre at Red Deer. Enlisting in July, 1942, Frank took preliminary training at Red Deer, and joined "The Army Show" at its inception. The family home is at Bellevue, where Frank's mother and a sister, Beulah, reside.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bundy, of Cowley, were visitors to Blaimore on Sunday.

Canadian Pacific Spitfires Take Toll of Hun 'Planes

The two Spitfires presented to the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas by officers and employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway from the proceeds of their novel Golden Aircraft Fund have had "very remarkable careers", according to the R.C.A.F. News Service. Pilots flying them have shot down at least seven Hun 'planes, damaged nine and chalked up two probables; and, in addition, Canadian Pacific I and II were the "personal" ships of two Canadian aces when they won the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The two fighter 'planes, pictured on the upper right of the layout above, were paid for by the sale of old gold donated from all over the Canadian Pacific to a fund originated by Miss Gladys Gowlind (upper left), of the treasury department in Montreal, who is shown rolling the sleeves of war out of the barrel and into a model C.P.R. train.

The pilots who "got their gong" while flying the C.P.R. Spitfires are Squadron Leader D. G. (Bud) Malloy, D.F.C., of Halifax (left), who made 46 sweeps with Canadian Pacific II; and Flight Lieutenant G. B. (Scotty) Murray, D.F.C., also of Halifax, who destroyed one enemy aircraft, damaged four and had two probables in 27 sweeps with Canadian Pacific I.

WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE MEETING WELL ATTENDED

The Oliver hall on Friday night contained a large audience of district business people, who were favored with a very interesting and instructive talk by Mr. Robert Syer, consultant of the management service division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Mr. Syer was accompanied by Mr. R. W. Greenway, board representative at Lethbridge.

Mr. G. E. Cruickshank, of Hilkrest, acted as chairman.

After explaining how the management division is organized to assist local trade, Mr. Syer pointed out the reason why the short supply situation necessitates cautious management. Selling consumer goods is a big responsibility for merchants today, and they play a tremendously important role in the final allocation of merchandise, he explained. You must accept this responsibility and see to it that your share of the available goods is properly re-allocated to the customer. Merchants should be extremely careful not to begin selling themselves out of business. Generally speaking, the profit picture for retailers was better during 1942, despite the many wartime restrictions. Lower operational costs aided in bringing about higher profits, and comprised chiefly curtailments in lighting, deliveries, shorter hours, and also by curtailment of certain services and through elimination of waste programmes.

Because supply houses are tightening their credit to retailers, it is essential for retailers to be more firm with customers' charge accounts, he suggested. He felt that local merchants should devise some system by which all deliveries would be pooled. Such a system saves manpower, gasoline, tires, etc. He also recommended self-service plans for stores as a means of cutting down operating costs by saving time of the merchant and reducing the number of employees to wait on customers.

It is false economy for retailers to reduce their advertising appropriations and they are advised to analyse these expenditures carefully, so as to get the best returns from the most efficient advertising media. It is essential that retailers keep their names before the public. In the final analysis, survival of business is contingent upon cutting operating expenses to an absolute minimum, and then regulating sales to a point where will meet those expenditures.

Following the address, Mr. Syer answered many questions relating to retailers' problems.

ST. ANNE'S CARNIVAL AT ARENA NEXT WEEK END

1943 CALGARY EXHIBITION AND STAMPEDE WILL BE CANADA'S GREATEST SHOW

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for the 58th celebration of the annual Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, July 5 to 16. All features of this great event will again be presented, along with many added new attractions.

The show this year has been dedicated to "Quality Food Production for Victory and Freedom," and it will mirror the Canadian war effort, particularly in the field of livestock and agricultural products. The livestock exhibit is expected to be one of the finest in many years with a very large entry anticipated. The swine show, in keeping with the times, will probably be the largest ever held in Canada. On display in the spacious cattle pavilion will be an outstanding exhibit of "keystones" of breed improvement.

The biggest Stampede in the world, with 500 cowboys competing in the hair-raising events, will again feature the afternoon performances. Horse races, with seven races daily, will intersperse the programme on the last four days, Wednesday to Saturday. Monday and Tuesday afternoons will be filled with the most thrilling collection of western sports ever presented. Along with the Stampede on those afternoons, the track events will consist of Roman standing, pony express, stake turning and cart races. Calgary has long been famous for its exciting chuck wagon races held each evening in front of the grandstand. These afternoon attractions are expected to challenge the thrills of the chuck wagon.

The glorious week will begin with the Stampede parade on Monday morning at 10 a.m., for which the armed services are again co-operating to display Canada's mighty forces—war, Indians, cowboys and old timers will join the services to present one of the finest spectacles ever presented. The Indians will again come to the Exhibition for their annual holiday and will camp in their picturesque surroundings at the grounds. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings street displays will be presented in down-town Calgary. The old timers will again entertain all their old friends in the pleasant atmosphere of their old log cabin.

The evening attraction on the grandstand platform is entitled "Allies Victorious," and will combine clever comedy and mirthful music in the most attractive presentation ever staged on the "A" circuit. Each evening the grandstand performance will be opened with the thrilling chuck wagon races. Already over 20 entries have been received for this event, the greatest entry for many years, and thrills and spills will be the result for at least five heats each night. Saturday evening the Indians will parade on the platform in their colorful costumes and Stampede championships will be presented to the top cowboys of the week. Fireworks will be presented on Monday and Saturday evenings, and will undoubtedly be the greatest displays presented in Canada this year.

The All Canadian Midway, "Froland," with many new rides and shows will be in Calgary again for the week of July 5 to 10, and will do its part in providing entertainment and relaxation for the public generally and the members of the armed services stationed in the west.

Seat reservations may be made by mail accompanied by self-addressed stamped envelope with cheque or money order.

It is claimed that Welsh has been a legal language in Welsh courts for many years, and that there is little chance of any member of the legal profession obtaining a court position in many parts of Wales without having had a good knowledge of the language.

This car, one of 2,000 new box cars being built for the Canadian National Railways to handle the increasing volume of war traffic over the lines of the National System, is shown above at the plant of National Railways Munitions Limited being loaded with naval guns manufactured at this subsidiary of the Canadian National Railways. The car bears

There are seven girls working as crane operators in this big war plant. The box in which the naval gun barrel is encased for travel is a

The box is of unusual design with interior bracing to hold the barrel firmly in place, while on the exterior steel pieces strengthen the carrier and provide loops to enable crane hooks to take hold when transferring to and from the freight cars at terminals.

JUST NAMES

"Yep," says Uncle Hiram, "when a feller has to know the botanical name of what he raises, the synthetic name of his fertilizer, the entomological name of the bugs that eat it, the pharmaceutical name of what he sprays on it, and the professional name of what he gets for it—well, it's time to do some figuring and see what it costs a man to live."

SHOULD BE BRANDED

Meat is to be stamped, to discourage the "black market." It's a pity, says the Ottawa Journal, those who sell—and buy—on the black market couldn't be stamped also. A large "C" (for Chiseller) in indelible ink in the middle of the forehead would be most appropriate.

Fighting T.B.

Saskatchewan To X-Ray All Indians On Reserves

Regina, Sask.—X-ray of Indians in every reserve in Saskatchewan has been started by the Department of Indian Affairs in an effort to find and treat all tuberculosis cases among them.

M. Christianson, superintendent of Indian affairs at Regina, said, "It is the intention of the department that every Indian man, woman and child be X-rayed."

As tuberculosis among the white population of Saskatchewan is being eradicated, there have been complaints that the Indian reservations have remained "pools of infection," endangering the white population living near the reserves. The Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League has already demonstrated that tuberculosis among the Indians can be wiped out as well as among white people, which it had to prove a number of years ago.

Must Look Careworn

So Nazi Artist Must Retouch Recent Portrait of Hitler

A new portrait of Hitler, painted by the Nazi artist Kurt Schmitt, which was to have been shown in a Berlin gallery in May, was withdrawn—it is repainted. It depicted Hitler flatteringly as a healthy, fresh-faced, well-fed Fuehrer, confident and apparently without a care.

It was realized that this aspect did not conform to Goebbels's recent propaganda describing Hitler's careworn face reflecting the sufferings of his people. So Kurt Schmitt has now to paint in the lines of worry and anxiety before his picture can be exhibited—London Daily Sketch.

Trade Commissioner Tells Why Britain Wants Lean Bacon
George R. Paterson, Canadian Animal Products Trade Commissioner in London, England, who was in Ottawa recently, made some observations on why Britain wants lean bacon.

"Bacon production in Canada is now at the highest point on record. This may enable the 4-ounce bacon ration for the people of Britain to be maintained," said Mr. Paterson. "While the British bacon ration is not included in the general meat ration, nevertheless it is a very important part because the official meat ration is not what might be considered generous. It consists of an amount of meat to the value of 26 cents per week with average weight of slightly more than one pound. The additional food provided by four ounces of bacon should consequently contain as high a percentage of animal protein as is found in any good, lean meat."

"While there is a comparative shortage of fats in Britain there are more economical ways of providing fat than by shipping it in the form of fat bacon."

"Though it is important to provide the quantity of bacon requested by Britain from Canada—675,000,000 pounds this year—if it is equally important that the hog produced for bacon for Britain should not be overfed or in excess of a weight of 220 lb. live weight when marketed."

USED MACHINE

Vegetable growers in the United Kingdom have brought their business to such a point that complete mechanization has almost been reached. Last winter 650 tons of carrots were lifted and stored entirely by machine, at the rate of around 2 1/2 acres a day. The yield was close to 30 tons per acre.

Protein For Chicks

Og De Home-Produced If Commercial Foods Not Available

Where prepared commercial feeds or concentrates are not available in sufficient quantities as chick starters, home mixed feeds should be used, state poultry officials of Dominion Department of Agriculture. There is grains and chicks can be successfully started on ground grains, supplemented by home produced protein feeds.

Hard boiled infertile eggs mixed with bread crumbs or ground grains have given a start to many fine broods of chicks. Sour milk curd treated in the same way makes an excellent feed and even where the supply of milk is too limited to permit making curd, the milk may be used to moisten the grains, and a supply kept at hand for chicks to drink. Animal or fish oil may be boiled and the soup and solids may be mixed with ground grains to carry the chicks over the starter period, after which they can get along on grains and good green range.

"When it is necessary to follow those methods, care should be taken to feed only what the chicks can eat in a short time; any feed left after half an hour's feeding should be removed. With this method of feeding, chicks should be fed four to six times daily. Chicks should be allowed outside where they can get all the green feed and sunshine possible. Early in the season, vitamin fish oil should be included in the ration.

CHAPTER VI

"GUILLERMO—Williams—Wilhelm." The Pancho wagged his unkempt head. "Don Felix could be a West agent. Those Germans are usually fond of music."

Morgan nodded agreement. "In spite of the care I exercised, Guillermo knows or suspects that I am an American undercover agent. That is why he seized the opportunity to create an international crisis by murdering Col. Velasquez."

"But," Roaiza touched the papers beside the lamp, "how did Don Felix know that Uncle Miguel would have these maps and papers on his person?"

"Those papers did not come from Col. Velasquez," smiled Morgan. "Espionage is a dirty business, senorita. Every nation knows the secrets of the other. Rest assured, if Guillermo is an agent of Germany, he has all the supposedly secret maps and war plans of Argentina he needs."

"Yes, Lt. Morgan," said Esteban Velasquez. "International Secret Service is a dirty business, and you are a part of it. Your story is interesting, but—how do we know that you speak the truth?"

"Take me to Capt. Rojas. The fingerprints on the cocktail glass have been photographed by this time. Rojas will tell you that I am guilty of Col. Velasquez's death. In fact, the real killer, Senor Verde, is probably under arrest now."

Young Velasquez frowned. "We cannot take the chance. If those fingerprints should prove to be yours—"

"Esteban," Roaiza's dark eyes moved from her brother to her. "We must give Lt. Morgan his chance. You—your brother—"

"It would be natural for you to question Capt. Rojas. If the lieutenant's story is true, the police will tell you what the fingerprints reveal."

"Bueno," approved Tito Pancho. "Roaiza and I shall watch the Americans until you return."

"Very well," Esteban yielded. "But I insist that this fellow be tied up before I leave you alone with him. Pancho can still use a knife, I know, but his old joints are a bit stiff."

IT WAS Roaiza who broke the long silence that ensued after Esteban had departed. "I am sorry, Senor Esteban," she apologized, "that you must remain tied in such an uncomfortable position."

"I do not mind," Morgan assured her pleasantly. "The fact that you, senorita Esteban, back to the Casa Grande indicates that, whether you know it or not, you are inclined to believe my story. I consider that the best piece of luck that has come my way since I have been in Buenos Aires."

"His good humor was infectious," what you say is correct, senor," Roaiza admitted with a smile. "You are aware, I hope, that the great mass of Argentine people admire the Americans, and it would grieve me to learn that the United States would countenance the things of which you seem to be guilty."

"My reason is more personal," he said. "There is nothing like individual friendship to create national animosity. I gather that you and your brother are a dancing team at the Cafe Blanco. After this mess is cleaned up, you'll find me in a ring-side seat every time you do your act for the rest of my day."

"You will not be wasting your time, Americano," Tito Pancho declared positively. "The tango, as danced by Roaiza and Esteban—"

He paused. From the alley without came the sound of an automobile, the motor roaring to such an extent that it seemed the car was tearing the floor of the cottage. Tito Pancho tilted his head. "It is Esteban."

"No," Roaiza rose quickly, to face

the door somewhat apprehensively. "Esteban has not had time—"

"Then it is the friends of the American," Roaiza's hand found his dagger once more. "It was a trick—to send Esteban away—"

BUT before the stevedore could reach Morgan with the knife, the door flew open and Esteban Velasquez dashed into the room, slowing only when he perceived that Roaiza and Pancho were present, and that Morgan was still roped to the chair.

"Thank God!" he exclaimed fervently, the anxiety and alarm vanishing from his face. "I thought—I feared I would be too late!"

"What happened?" asked Roaiza. "Didn't you go to the Casa Grande?"

"Yes," nodded Esteban. "And I drove like mad to get back here before this scoundrel could harm you. Sending me to the hotel was a subterfuge—nothing more."

He was glaring at Chris Morgan with a malevolence that puzzled the American. Something was wrong, if, as Esteban claimed, he had been in the Grand Hotel, he should have returned smilingly instead of with a grim more hostile than before. "You saw Capt. Rojas, senor?" Morgan asked.

"I did," Esteban nodded again. "What did you hope to gain, you murderer, by your lies, if you did not make some effort to escape during my absence?"

"Esteban!" cried Roaiza. "You mean—Lt. Morgan lied to us?"

Esteban nodded heavily. "He is twice a murderer. Not only did he kill Uncle Miguel, but he also killed Senor Diaz!"

Morgan shook his head. "You have been misinformed, senor. I know no Senor Diaz—"

"Diaz is the fingerprint expert who took the glass from which you drank. Diaz has been shot and the glass smashed to fragments. Capt. Rojas knows you have left the Casa Grande, and the police are scouring the city for you."

"But—" For a moment Morgan was stunned. "But—Rojas should know that no opportunity was given me to escape. He and you can account for every moment of my time since the death of Colonel Velasquez was discovered."

"But—" For a moment Morgan was stunned. "But—Rojas should know that no opportunity was given me to escape. He and you can account for every moment of my time since the death of Colonel Velasquez was discovered."

ESTEBAN laughed in disbelief, his teeth a white line against his dark face. "You shall play no more tricks on us, you murderer!"

"I must have been Guillermo who destroyed the glass," insisted Morgan. "Didn't you see? Somewhere he suspected that the prints on that glass were not mine. Something I said probably caused him to smile a rat."

"If that is true, you are in an unenviable position. The fingerprints of Senor Verde are gone, and there remains only you to accuse of the crime. Remember, if Roaiza is placed under oath she will have to swear that she found Uncle Miguel's papers in your room."

The American glanced at the girl, who avoided his eyes. "Esteban cleared his throat. 'In spite of the evidence against me, won't you take me on faith a while longer? If you will release me—'

"Would you surrender to Rojas?" Esteban asked.

"No, I—you see, this Guillermo has stacked the cards against me. I would like a chance to prove my innocence, and would have to keep away from the authorities until that is done."

"But," Roaiza objected. "If you fall into the hands of the police, the Velasquez honor will be threatened. That above all, is what we must prevent."

"If I establish my innocence, it would follow naturally that the honor of Colonel Velasquez will be cleared."

"No," Esteban said. "You shall not be freed. We shall deal with you ourselves."

"You mean you would kill me?" "Perhaps," returned Esteban. "You showed no mercy to Uncle Miguel—nor to Senor Diaz."

"But," Esteban—"Roaiza's voice faltered, now that the affair she herself had instigated was nearing its climax. "We must make no mistake. If—" you from the Casa Grande, senor. You were in such haste to get away from Capt. Rojas that I felt you would lead us to Lt. Morgan."

He stepped to the table and fingered the documents. "Ah, perfect! Perfect!" he murmured. "When Capt. Rojas arrives he will find all the evidence he needs—the maps and plans the murderer and his three accomplices."

"Accomplices!" echoed Esteban. "You mean—"

Guillermo shrugged ironically. "What else can be believed, senor, but that the ungrateful nephew and niece of Col. Velasquez schemed with this Yankee? You did not inform the police that you were sheltering him."

"But—you can see that he is our prisoner—" Don Felix shook his head. "Allow me to correct you. It is we who had to let the Morgan to that chair after we surprised the four of you. He peered over his shoulder. De Nova, go to the nearest phone booth and call the police. Inform him that we have captured Morgan."

HOME SERVICE

LEARN THE ART OF WEAVING IN YOUR HOME

In wartime there are shortages especially in the manufacture of good materials, so why don't you learn to weave and make your own materials.

You'll also be helping the war effort by not using manufactured materials which need plenty of valuable manpower as well as material.

Weaving is really not difficult to learn, either. In fact, it is quite enjoyable because it is rhythmic handwork. It is soothing to taut nerves. It also brings pleasure because it gives the creative urge a whirl.

Human weaving can be as intricate and delicate as a spider's or as simple and sturdy as a beaver's. You can use equipment as complex as a textile mill or as simple as a handloom.

Our 32-page booklet gives you all the necessary information for weaving various materials from rugs to purses and what materials to buy for each.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How to Weave Useful Novelties" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Noon-Time Concerts

Conclude Listen To British Regiment Bands In Trafalgar Square

Seated on top of a brick and concrete surface air raid shelter in Trafalgar square, bands from crack British regiments, including the guards, play noon-time concerts for anyone who wants to stop and listen.

The concerts are one of the ways in which Britain attempts to relieve the drabness of war for people who can no longer motor for pleasure, go to the seaside to lie on a beach or swim in the summer, or to do some of the things they did before 1939.

The people who throng the square at noon, leaning against the concrete railings or sitting on the base of Nelson's column, to listen to the concerts include airmen, sailors and soldiers on leave, women from the services and civilians with some time to spare while they are out of their offices for lunch.

The most noticeable thing about them is that they listen with attentive faces and generally prefer soft music to the sprittier pieces. The bandmaster has a perfect way of gauging his audience's reaction by the number of people who drift away after each piece. The audiences rarely include more than a few officers.

Lucky For People

Strike In Ulster Stopped Egg Shipments For Some Time

There was a real field day when a strike stopped egg shipments from Ulster to Britain. There was such a vast accumulation of eggs that British Food Ministry officials decided to release some for immediate consumption rather than let them go stale. Most people are lucky if they get an egg a month; but Belfast dealers were allowed to exceed the ration and thousands went home with a dozen eggs—in some cases grocers allocated six eggs per person.

TO SWIVEL CHAIR STRATEGISTS

In every circle, and truly at every table, there are people who lead armies into Macedonia; who know where the camp ought to be placed; what posts ought to be occupied by troops; when and through what pass that territory should be entered; where magazines should be formed; how provisions should be conserved by land and sea; and when it is proper to engage the enemy, when to lie quiet.

If, therefore, anyone thinks himself qualified to give advice respecting the war which I am to conduct, which may prove advantageous to the public, let him not refuse his assistance to the State, but let him come with me into Macedonia. He shall be furnished with a ship, a horse, a tent; even his travelling charges will be defrayed.

But, if he thinks this too much trouble, and prefers the repose of a civil life to the toils of war, let him not, on land, assume the office of a pilot. The city itself, furnishes abundance of topics of conversation; let it confine its passion for talking within its own precincts, and rest assured that we shall pay no attention to any counsels but such as shall be framed within our camp.—Lucius Aemilius Paulus 165 B.C.

LETTER FROM GERMANY

Under the forced labor policy of the Vichy government in France, Frenchmen every day are being sent to work in the factories of Germany.

In spite of their courageous efforts to resist this plan, men, and even French women, are now being rounded up in public places; in restaurants, theatres and cafes, and with barely time to say good-bye to their families, are being shipped in box-cars like cattle to work under appalling conditions for the Nazis.

Naturally, once in Germany, any news which they send to their families and friends is carefully censored. They are unable to give them any true picture of the conditions under which they are living or how they are faring.

"Combat," one of many French underground papers which have reached the Fighting French information service in Ottawa, recently published the story of one ingenious Frenchman who was able to solve the problem.

Drafted for forced labor in Germany, on the day of his departure, he warned his wife: "If I write to you in blue ink, I am telling the truth. If I write to you in red ink, you must understand the opposite of what is written."

A month later, his wife received from Germany the following card, written in black ink: "My darling, we are very happy, well lodged, good beds, excellent food, very friendly treatment from the factory foreman, never a reproach, never an alarm, never a bombardment. Moreover, the Germans have very good morale, and are certain of victory. In the stores we find everything we need, absolutely everything—except red ink."

Sam Scott: "That's a good looking hat, Bill."

Bill: "Yes, Sam. I bought it five years ago, had it cleaned three times, changed it twice in restaurants, and it's still as good as new."

A large number of Alberta mothers are definitely opposed to the three and a half months' school holiday set by the department of education. It is the smaller children about which they are more concerned, and they also think the idea of running the schools till the end of July in 1944 is a mistake. A petition is being circulated in some centres.

The death occurred at Hillcrest on Wednesday of last week of Oscar Lofstrana, resident there for the past twenty-two years. He was born in Sweden sixty-nine years ago, and was resident of Bankhead, Alberta, before moving to Hillcrest. His wife predeceased him five years ago. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Richard, of Hillcrest, and Edwin overseas with the R. C. A.; Mrs. D. J. Jones, of Hillcrest, and Nellie in Calgary. The honor flag won by Blairmore West Ward school for having produced the largest number of war savings stamps of all schools in the district was dropped near the school from a plane at low altitude on Thursday afternoon last amid cheers from the young pupils who immediately caught the flag and hoisted it on their dapple, where it will fly until next month's winner is declared. "Please, sir, my dog's dead," sobbed the boy.

"No," said the boy, "but you didn't bring her up from a pup."

YOU MUST MAKE A 1942 INCOME TAX RETURN NOT LATER THAN JUNE 30TH

...IF SINGLE and your net income exceeded $66000
MARRIED and your net income exceeded $120000

For incomes not over $3000 get two (2) copies of simplified Form T. 1 Special.
For incomes over $3000 get three (3) copies of Form T. 1 General.

Income Tax dollars are not ordinary dollars... they are Victory dollars... necessary dollars to help win the war. Income Tax is fair to all. All are taxed in proportion to their ability to pay.

Under the new system introduced this year, Income Tax is now on a pay-as-you-earn basis. The reduction of the 1942 Tax made this possible.

In most cases the larger part of the reduced tax will have been paid by the 1942 tax deductions or instalment payments. One-third of any balance must be paid by 30th June and the remainder on or before 31st December, 1943.

You must file an Income Tax return and pay any balance to establish your right, after the war, to the refund of the Savings Portion of your tax.

If you are a salary or a wage earner, your employer can probably supply you with Income Tax Forms—otherwise, they are available at your local Post Office or the office of your District Inspector of Income Tax.

Over 2,000,000 Canadians will be filing returns and paying taxes... avoid the last minute rush. If you wait, illness or other unforeseen circumstances may prevent you from getting your return in on time. Avoid penalties by sending in your return NOW!

FARMERS

You must attach to your return on Form T. 1 Special or Form T. 1 General either a statement of your gross income and expenses, or completed Farmers T. 1 Supplemental. The T. 1 Supplemental itemizes all forms of farm receipts and expenses, and is a guide for determining your actual net income. Forms may be secured from your local Post Office or District Inspector of Income Tax.

To help you fill out your Income Tax forms a booklet ("Farmers' Income Tax Guide, 1942") has been prepared to cover the special conditions which apply to farm operations. It can be obtained free on request from your District Inspector. If you don't know his address, just mail your letter to "District Inspector of Dominion Income Tax."

FAT IS AMMUNITION!

Fat and bone conservation begins at home and ends in the firing line.

- DO YOU KNOW -

One pound of fat supplies enough glycerine to fire 150 bullets from a Bren gun.

Two pounds of fat will fire a burst of 20 cannon shells from a Spitfire or 10 anti-aircraft shells.

Bones produce fat and aircraft glue.

If we saved fat at the rate of one ounce per person per week this would mean 36,000,000 pounds per year, enough to produce 3,600,000 pounds of glycerine for explosives.

OUR FIGHTERS DEPEND ON YOU

"Every householder who delivers to a retail butcher, collector, or Salvage Committee, any rendered or unrendered fats or bones shall be entitled to receive from the person to whom they are delivered 4 cents per pound net weight for rendered fats, and 1 cent per pound for unrendered fats."

The above paragraph is a direct quotation from Order A-642 of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"Rendered fat" means fat melted down and strained to remove solid matter. It includes drippings and strained pan grease resulting from the cooking of meat.

"Unrendered fat" means raw or partially cooked fat free from lean meat and bone, but not fully rendered.

"Bones" means raw or cooked bones of cattle, sheep and hogs.

Wrong Number

This is one of those "it actually happened to me" stories and we've got witnesses. Just to soothe the souls of our Montreal friends, we'll admit it happened in Toronto. One evening, about 11 o'clock, the phone rang. Wrong number. Two minutes later the call came again. Wrong number. This went on for about six calls. Finally, as the alleged head of the house, we picked up the phone ourselves. "Joe there? Lemme speak to Joe," a rather fuzzy voice said. "Joe is not here," we replied, as firmly as possible; "what number do you want?" He told us. "Wrong number," we said; "you're calling the wrong number." At which point our alcoholic friend on the other end of the line sputtered: "Then you (censored) (censored) nincompoop, whaddya answering for if it's the wrong number?" Then he hung up on us.—Editor Aluminium Ingot.

In the last great war there used to be quite a discussion about Canadian boys over there marrying English girls. But this war is reversing this in some ways, and the English boys over here are marrying Canadian girls. So, you see, life has a way of balancing matters. It's a question of "give and take," as I told a couple whom I married recently, the man gives and the woman takes. Perhaps I'd better stop at this point before the editor fires me for stirring up trouble.—Padre.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT OF SCHOOL TEACHERS

F. J. Lote, manager of the local Employment and Selective Service office, states that he has received special instructions originating with Arthur MacNamara, director of national service, that special efforts must be made to absorb school teachers into farming and other essential work during the summer holidays.

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, recently issued an appeal to school teachers to engage in farming or other essential work during the vacation period, and appealed to teachers not to regard the closing of schools this year as a holiday, but rather as an opportunity to aid directly in solving Canada's wartime labor problems.

The local Selective Service office will give special attention to registering teachers, either for work in the district or for essential work in their home locality, or even elsewhere, depending upon where work is available. It is not the intention of the service to keep teachers away from special summer courses which are sometimes required to be taken. Moreover, it is emphasized that teaching itself is a very high priority occupation, and that the present intention is to get teachers to accept jobs for the summer only, after which they will return to the teaching profession.

Unity At Food Parley Is Good Sign For Future

Hot Springs, Va.—The United Nations food conference—first effort of the Allied powers towards a better post-war world ended with program designed to provide more and better nourishment for all mankind.

Richard K. Law, chairman of the British delegation, made the motion for the adoption of the resolutions placed before the plenary session by the drafting committees. Law reviewed the work of the conference and declared its spirit of harmony and collaboration was a happy augury for continued unity among Allied nations.

Judge Marvin Jones said that "what we have found is of profound and lasting significance for the entire world."

"What we have found is this: "First—compelling confirmation of a united purpose to make effective the pledge of the Atlantic Charter and of the mutual aid agreements for a peace that will afford an assurance that all men in all lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want."

"Second—overwhelming evidence that we have in unity the strength to make our purpose effective in peace as we are making it effective in war. "Third—a convincing and inspiring demonstration that we can work together in practice—in the hard everyday effort that will step by step translate our hopes—and the hopes of all mankind—into reality."

Secretary General Warren Kelchman issued a summation stating: "The work of the conference emphasized the fundamental inter-dependence of the consumer and the producer."

"The need to reach freedom from hunger before seeking freedom from want was understood and resolutions were adopted on the subject." Summation continued: "These covered both the planning of agriculture production and the adoption of measures to prevent violent fluctuations in prices resulting from the shortages of the transition period."

The summation continued: "One of the most important recommendations of the conference is that the governments represented should declare to their own people and to one another their intention to secure more and better food for the people. Various measures which might be taken for this purpose were discussed. These included education, special provision for particular classes of the population, and the improvement of the quality of food available."

A MILITARY POWER

Sir Archibald Sinclair Flects Canada Will Have Fourth Place

London.—Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons that Canada will emerge from the war the fourth strongest military power in the world.

He made the statement in speaking for the government in a debate on post-war civil aviation, telling the house that the British government would pursue discussions with the dominions but could not tell them what to do. He said the statement to Britain, the United States and Russia as being the leading military powers ahead of Canada.

"We have put first in our work the importance of coming to an agreement with the dominions," Sir Archibald said of the government's civil aviation plans. "After the war we shall either be in a world dominated by the United States or the Soviet Union, or the centre of a great empire bound together by air routes."

CLOSELY GUARDED

British Not Taking Any Chances With General Von Arnim

London.—Here's proof that things aren't always as they look from the outside.

Nazi Col.-Gen. Jurgen von Arnim, who was captured in Tunisia, is spending his captivity on a beautiful estate in England.

Apparently his main guard is a small dachshund and a couple of unlocked gates.

However, a mile inside the gates there's a heavy barbed wire fence, patrolled continuously by armed sentries.

OUTPUT LOWER

Ottawa.—Canadian output of crude petroleum and natural gasoline in February totalled 779,998 barrels compared with 860,790 in the previous month and 846,026 in the corresponding month last year, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

D. C. Coleman

Over western territory made familiar by years of experience as a railway executive, D. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is renewing old friendships with business leaders and railway officials from Fort William to Victoria and from the United States border to the end of steel in Alberta. This photograph was taken in Regina, when with the Hon. C. A. Dunning, one of the directors of the railway travelling with him, he was greeted by old friends at the station. Mr. Coleman is making his first tour of the country since he recently added the duties of chairman to those of the C.P.R., presidency which he assumed more than a year ago. His scrutiny will include the expanding operations of the Canadian Pacific Airlines from Edmonton and farther north.

Every Bushel Of Canada's Wheat Will Be Needed

Hot Springs, Va.—Canada will be required to increase food production, not only in the immediate post-war period, but in the years to follow, if the recommendations of the United Nations food conference are carried into effect, it was stated here by G. S. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture and chairman of the Canadian delegation to the 44-country gathering.

While the conference headed toward completion of its work by issuing a declaration of principles which envisage post-war collaboration among countries to banish war and improve social and economic conditions throughout the world through the growth of collective security, Barton declared his belief that Canada will benefit enormously by its deliberations.

"The short-term requirements as developed here undoubtedly indicate that Canada must not only continue her contributions to the food supply of the world but enlarge them, if possible," Barton said.

"Fortunately, if our stocks of wheat are maintained, the need for it to meet anticipated shortages is clearly evident. We are going to need every bushel."

"The other big thing, as demonstrated at the conference is that Canada is a growing and at the same time, an exporting nation. We will continue on an exporting basis, as far as major products of Canadian agriculture are concerned."

"The whole picture, as it has been developed here, should appeal to Canada because it is one of expanding agricultural economy."

The deputy minister went on to say that in the period of shortages, immediately after the war, there will be need for orderly marketing through some form of international arrangement end, even in the long-range view, it may be necessary for some farm products.

"To that end," he continued, "we may have to join with others in recognizing that some form of co-operative production may be required."

It was clear to observers here what is beginning to shape up. A permanent organization of the food conference will be established at a meeting to be held in Washington in July. Others will follow in the next few months on relief, finances and civil aviation. Eventually, these separate organizations, each dealing with a specific subject, will be merged as sections of one over-all association of countries, to be the league of nations of the future.

This association of countries, open to victor and vanquished alike, will be assigned the task of maintaining peace and of promoting economic and social progress throughout the world. Unlike the League of Nations, it likely will rely heavily on economic considerations.

SENT GOOD WISHES

Birthday Greetings Received By King George From President Roosevelt Washington.—President Roosevelt expressed confidence in the spirit of unity between Britons and Americans, in the war and afterwards, in a birthday message of congratulations to King George. The text of his message:

"The occasion of Your Majesty's birthday gives me a welcome opportunity to join in your country's celebration and to send you heartfelt congratulations and good wishes."

"On behalf of the people of the United States, let me also convey their greetings and good wishes to the people of Britain."

"The Allied victory in North Africa has recently given the world an unsurpassed demonstration of what can be done when Britain and America work together. 'Unity in friendship and purpose' has bound together our soldiers on land, our sailors at sea, and our fliers in the air. That same bond unites American and British workers in the task of production, transport and supply. "I am sure that the spirit which has united our people in marching toward victory will direct their efforts after the war towards the goal of a just, lasting and fruitful peace."

NO CONVERSATIONS

Canada And Britain Have Not Discussed Post-War Civil Aviation

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons that no conversations have been initiated between Canada and the United Kingdom with respect to an Empire plan for development of post-war civil aviation.

He said, also, that Canada has not been approached by the United Kingdom government regarding representation for Canada on the board of British Overseas Airways Corporation, or the formation of some similar body.

Mr. King said he would communicate to the house the government's policy in these matters "in due course."

Six hundred Royal Navy ships are at sea at any given moment, and at least 2,200 British ships of which 1,800 belong to the United Kingdom.

Naval Quarters Think Nazis May Try Sea Battle

London.—Adolf Hitler may be preparing to throw his outnumbered but powerful surface fleet into one last naval action in a desperate gamble to smash an Allied invasion of the continent, informed naval quarters report.

If the German warships emerge from their hiding places in the Norwegian fjords and in the mine-barricaded Baltic sea to challenge Britain's home fleet, these quarters said, the watery triangle separating England and Germany will undoubtedly be the scene of the greatest naval battle since Jutland.

The home fleet is not taking Hitler's surface squadrons lightly, but it is ready and anxious to test its big guns on the thus-far evasive enemy, and there is no doubt here as to the outcome.

The fleet's main job now is to watch the giant battleship Tirpitz, sister ship of the ill-fated Bismarck, and it will continue that patrol if the Allied invasion should be launched along the Atlantic coast of Europe.

Destruction of the Tirpitz—which is listed at 35,000 tons but is probably well over 40,000 tons—would free one or more British battleships from the dreary northern patrol, for the Allies recognize the Tirpitz as one of the most formidable fighting ships afloat and they are guarding it heavily.

Naval men doubt that neither Allied or German capital ships would engage directly in any assault across the English channel, since the waters in that area are too narrow for battleship manoeuvring.

But any Allied attempt to land between Norway's North Cape and the north shore of Holland will almost certainly bring the big naval guns into action.

Observers believe that Hitler's surface ships are listed among his expendables, particularly since they are doing no direct war service at present beyond immobilizing the British ships assigned to watch them and

Bomber Leader

Air Commodore C. M. "Black Mike" McEwen, M.C., D.F.C., is shown at the desk from which he directs activities of a section of three bomber stations in the R.C.A.F. bomber group in Britain. An R.A.F. pilot in the last war and a member of the R.C.A.F. since its foundation in 1924, Air Commodore McEwen has held many commands in Canada and overseas.

thereby relieving pressure on Italy and Japan.

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the German navy, has not yet committed himself on his capital ship policy, but he is a known advocate of submarine warfare and he may well decide that every surface ship in the fleet can be sacrificed to block an invasion.

The effect on Allied naval strategy of an invasion north of the channel will depend largely on the spot chosen and the disposition of the German naval units at that time.

A landing below the Skagerrak would have little immediate naval effect, beyond the destruction of any naval warships that might intervene but invasion of Norway would imperil every enemy vessel caught north of the landing point and would effectively bottle up every other ship except those in French ports.

SEARCH FOR MINERALS

Edmonton.—A party of five members of a Dominion geological survey unit has left Edmonton for Waterways, Alta., on the first leg of a trip into the north country in search of strategic war-needed minerals.

Bacon Board Has Been Given Wider Power

Ottawa.—The Canadian bacon board has been reconstituted as a meat board, with power to control distribution of all meat, Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced.

Mr. Gardiner said in a departmental statement that introduction of meat rationing, which came into effect late last month, might make it necessary to control distribution of all meat, as well as bacon and ham, through agreements.

It might also be necessary to control processing of meat so that when supplies were plentiful, some would be set aside for periods of short supply.

The statement said: "The meat board now will have the responsibility of carrying out all contracts or agreements with respect to the export of meat entered into by the government of Canada with any external governments or agencies of such governments."

"In conducting its export operations, the meat board will act in conformity with government policies respecting domestic food supply and prices."

Personnel of the new board will be the same as that of the bacon board, which has been operating since December, 1939. Its chairman is Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan minister of agriculture.

All licences and orders issued by the bacon board remain in effect under the reconstituted board.

In the order-in-council authorizing the change, meat is defined as any edible product from farm animals whether in fresh or processed form, except milk, milk products and edible fats.

Personnel of the board, in addition to Mr. Taggart, is as follows: L. C. McCut, general agricultural agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal; S. E. Todd, managing director, packers council, Toronto; Adrien Morin, deputy agriculture minister of Quebec; L. W. Pearson, assistant director of the Dominion agriculture department, is secretary-manager.

NEED SUPERVISORS

Nazis Have To Watch Workers In Big Munitions Plants

London.—Patriotic saboteurs have cut German production of war weapons in the occupied countries at least 22 per cent. Allied government sources estimated.

They said underground reports indicated the saboteurs had destroyed possibly $500,000,000 worth of Nazi machinery and equipment and had forced Germans to use at least 2,000,000 supervisors to guard against their activity.

A Czech spokesman said there was one guard for every two workers at the big Skoda arms plant and the Belgian and Dutch refugee governments received reports of the wrecking of war plants and systematic destruction of railroads, engines and rolling stock.

Other reports indicated Germans were fighting unrest among their own people.

Foreign sources said the morale of troops stationed on invasion fronts slumped after the Tunisian defeat and many deserters were heading for Sweden. Germany was forced to set up concentration camps for mutinous troops, the reports said.

WAS WORLD FAMOUS

Dr. Dafeo Who Cared For Dionne Quintuplets Is Dead

North Bay.—Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, 59, who officiated at the birth of the Dionne quintuplets and cared for them until last year, died June 2, in a North Bay hospital. He was suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Dafeo was stricken shortly after returning from a trip to Toronto. He was known throughout the world as "The Country Doctor"—the man who cared for the Dionne quintuplets when nobody conceded them any chance of survival after their birth on May 28, 1934.

Dafeo remained the quintuplets' physician until last year, when he resigned after friction with the quintuplets' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne. He was succeeded by Dr. L. Joyal of North Bay.

TAKE AMMUNITION

Quebec.—Naval authorities have announced that souvenir hunters had walked away with a number of rounds of live ammunition from the corvette "Ville de Quebec" while she was in port here after a tour of duty in the Mediterranean where she sank a U-boat.

Canada's War Leaders

Back from momentous conferences in Washington where they met Allied strategists, Canada's defence minister and the chiefs of the three armed forces are shown as they arrived at Rockcliffe airport, Ottawa, in an R.C.A.F. aircraft. From left to right, they are: Lieut.-General Kenneth Stuart, D.S.O., M.C., Chief of the Army General Staff; Defence Minister J. L. Ralston; Vice-Admiral P. W. Nelles, C.B., Chief of the Naval Staff, and Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, C.B., D.S.C., Chief of the Air Staff. The four were summoned to Washington to assist at the conferences between Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister King and other Allied leaders.
